VOL. XII NO 114. MARION, OHIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1889. PRICE, 3 CENTS

Mr. New's Nomination

A Senate Committee Taking Testimony on the Subject.

INVESTIGATING CHARGES.

They Prove to Be Old Ones That Have Been Investigated Heretofore, and It Is Believed That the Committee Will Report in Favor of His Confirmation. Other Dispatches from Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The senate committee on commerce held a meeting yesterday to take testimony concerning the charges against Mr. New, whose nomination as consul general at London is now pending before the committee. The charges were recently made against Mr. New. They are old charges which have been investigated heretofore in the Indiana courts. Mr. New was charged with using his position as president of the Indiana National bank for stock gambling purposes, and with defrauding his bondsmen to the amount of $21,000 in the settlement of his brother's estate.

Ex-Senator McDonald of Indiana, who was associated in Mr. New's defense before the Indiana courts, will appear before the committee to defend Mr. New. The committee would have agreed to a unanimous report in favor of Mr. New, after hearing the charges, but Mr. Morrill of Maine, a republican member of the committee therefore ignored that action.

Judge Matthews' Funeral.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Associate Justice Stanley Matthews were held at his late residence at 1 o'clock p. m. Rev. Dr. Pinkham, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, assisted by Dr. Leonard, conducted the services. President Harrison and the members of his cabinet, Chief Justice Fuller and the associate justices of the supreme court, a large number of senators and many personal friends and acquaintances of the deceased attended the funeral.

Chief Justice Fuller and his associates on the supreme court bench acted as honorary pall bearers. After the services were over the remains were taken to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, and at 3 o'clock the train bearing the remains, relatives of the family and Justice Fuller, Gray, Blatchford and Lamar, and Col. Gamble, Judge Matthews' colored body servant, who has been in the family for many years, left for Cincinnati, where the funeral will take place.

The pall bearers were appointed by the following justices of the supreme court: Justices Harlan, Blatchford, Gray and Lamar. The members of the family were the following: Mrs. Matthews, the sons, Mortimer, Paul, Rutherford C. B. Matthews; the daughters, Mrs. Theodore Howard, Miss C. L. Matthews, Mrs. Woodbridge Geer, Professor Henry Mottet, of Princeton seminary, a brother-in-law of the deceased, but Rev. Dr. Henry Mottet, Mrs. Barnard Cleveland, a daughter, will join the family at Cleveland. The funeral party will proceed direct to Glendale. The last services will be held in the church of Spring Grove cemetery and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Pise.

Blame Does Not Deter It.

WASHINGTON, March 24. The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says the attention of Secretary Blaine was called to an article published in the New York Herald, in which was published a letter alleged to have been written by Gen. Harrison to Mr. Blaine, under date of Feb. 1, 1880, "If I have seen the publication in the Herald," said the secretary of state, "I shall have not a word to say about it, neither not a syllable." Mr. Blaine would say no more and of course for the inference that the letter was genuine.

He Preferred Death.

WASHINGTON, March 26. The papers commuting the sentence of Albert Grier, convicted of the murder of James Jones, from death to imprisonment for life, were received at the jail about noon yesterday, and it did not take long to secure the prisoner's acceptance of the commutation. When the communication of sentence was announced Grier said that he preferred death to imprisonment for life.

After Postoffices.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Postmaster General Wanamaker went over to Philadelphia on Saturday as usual, for Sunday, and taught his Sunday school. He reached this city about noon yesterday and found a crowd of impatient people, who were waiting to see him. During the absence of the postmaster general the first assistant, Mr. Clarkson, received a large number of visitors.

But Few Callers at the White House.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—President Harrison denied himself to general callers. Only Secretary Blaine and Windom and Senator Hoar, with Speaker Reed, of the Massachusetts house of representatives, saw him before noon. The usual Monday afternoon reception was omitted on account of the president's attendance at Justice Matthew's funeral.

Pardons for Two.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The president has pardoned Fred. F. Bickell, of Minnesota, sentenced June 6, 1888, to six years imprisonment for embezzling National bank funds while acting as messenger. Also John R. Brown, of Washington Territory, sentenced to one year's imprisonment Sept. 8, 1885, for selling liquors to Indians.

Preparing Himself.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Secretary Windom has appointed Maj. Fred Bracket as a special agent of the treasury in order that he may familiarize himself with the duties of chief clerk before being appointed to that position. Chief Clerk Youmans will continue to serve until Maj. Bracket is appointed to succeed him.

He Will Wait a Week Longer.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—A. D. Hazens, who was recently confirmed as third assistant postmaster general, was not sworn in yesterday as expected. Mr. Harris, who at present holds the office, it is said, desires to complete a term of two years, and so Mr. Hazen will probably not assume his new duties until next week.

Miller Cannot Be Spared.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A delegation of the friends of Judge Samuel F. Miller, of the supreme court, called on the president and presented his name for appointment to the English mission. The president, it is understood, told the delegation that Judge Miller could not be spared from the bench.

Want to Succeed Mr. Walker.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Massachusetts delegation called on the president yesterday to present a petition signed by Chas. Francis Adams and numerous Massachusetts people, asking for the appointment of Edward Kingsley, at present one of the state railroad commissioners, to succeed Mr. Walker on the interstate commerce commission. Charles Noyes, ex-speaker of the Massachusetts house of delegates, is also a candidate for this position.

The friends of Gen. James H. Wilson say that he has assurances that he will receive the appointment and that his nomination will soon be sent to the senate.

A Resignation Accepted.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The resignation of Capt. Hassler, the appointment clerk of the interior department which was tendered on March 4, has been accepted by Secretary Noble to take effect thirty days from April 1. Capt. Hassler leaves next Monday to engage in the real estate business in Dakota.

Washington Notes.

Ex-Congressman Mahoney has suffered a relapse, and his condition is considered quite serious.

Charles E. Mitchell, the new commissioner of patents, will relieve the old commissioner, Mr. Hall, on Monday next.

Ex-Congressman Truman A. Merriman, of New York, is an applicant for the position of Democratic member of the civil service commission.

Chief Engineer Charles H. Loring, who was formerly engineer-in-chief of the navy, has been ordered to special experimental duty at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Secretary Tracy has directed Cramp Brothers to convey the gunboat Yorktown to the League island navy yard, where she will be accepted by the government as soon as the electric lighting plant is satisfactorily arranged.

The Affairs at Samoa.

Official Statement as Received at the Navy Department.

EVERYTHING VERY QUIET.

Advices from Commander Mullan, Commanding the Nipsic at Samoa, Under Date of February 22—The Tamasese Party Losing Ground—A Report from Our War Vessel at Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Capt. C. N. Schoonmaker, commanding the Vandalia, reports under date of Feb. 23 the arrival of the Vandalia at Apia, Samoa, the day previous. He found in port the Nipsic, her Britannic majesty's ship, Calliope, and the German corvettes Adler, Olga and Eber. Everything has been quiet since last reports from Samoa sent home, and Commander Mullan, having prepared a full report of the condition of affairs in the islands, it would go by the same mail. The Trenton had not arrived.

Commander Mullan, commanding the Nipsic, reports to the navy, under date of Feb 23, that Her Britannic Majesty's ship Calliope arrived on the 21 of February and relieved the Royalist. The English paper, The Samoan Times, had resumed publication. On the 11th of February a severe gale visited the harbor, during which the American barkentine Constitution was driven ashore, and became a total wreck. Everything possible was done to save the vessel. The second cutter of the Nipsic, in charge of Ensign W. P. White, took off the captain and crew. The Constitution was owned by Mr. Nicholas Richard, of San Francisco. Other smaller vessels are reported to have gone ashore on the west end of Upola island.

Affairs at Apia, he reports, have been very quiet since the last dispatch to the department. No molestation of foreigners or natives had occurred. On the 5th of February, near Brandeis, a German subject, and the president of the so-called Tamasese government was reported to have resigned, and left for Sidney in the merchant steamer Lubeck. The indications are that the Tamasese party is losing ground.

Commanders Joseph G. Green, reports everything quiet at Honolulu, March 9, and the health of the ships company excellent. On the 22d of February he left Honolulu and made a circuit of Hawaii, stopping two days at Hilo, and returning March 2. The American minister accompanied Commander Green. The training ship Constitution arrived at St. Thomas, March 13; would remain until the 21st, and then sail for Hampton Roads.

The time for opening bids for the machinery of the armored cruiser Texas, has been postponed from April 3 to May 1.

An Indianapolis Shooting.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 24.—About 9 o'clock last night John Clemens shot and killed P. E. L. Nowland, a young compositor. Clemens, who, together with his wife, was arrested, makes a statement in which he says that when, at the hour named, he entered his house he found Nowland and his wife occupying the same room. Nowland sprang up and made a motion as if about to attack Clemens, when the latter fired two shots, both taking effect and producing death almost immediately.

Died on His Engine.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 25.—Levi Lewis, one of the oldest engineers on the Western division of the New York Central railroad, died on his engine near Oak station, yesterday evening. His fireman noticed him bending over and spoke to him. Receiving no reply he found that Lewis was dead. Heart trouble was the probable cause.

The Leather Man Dead

His Body Found in the Woods Near Mount Pleasant, N. Y.

BRIEF HISTORY OF HIS LIFE.

An Eccentric Character Familiar in Connecticut Smothered Among the Dead. A Singular Life and Career—His True Versions Just Lately Made Known in a Very Peculiar Manner.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 26.—Information received to this city from Mount Pleasant, N. Y., a mile west of the finding of the body of a man in the woods near that place Sunday which, according to the description given is undoubtedly that of the "Old Leather Man," a character well known throughout Connecticut.

THE LEATHER MAN.

Almost everybody in Connecticut knew the "Leather man." Everything about him was leather. His hat, coat, breeches and traveling sack were made of coarse tanned leather, which he had patched and sewed together himself. It was seldom that this eccentric individual ever spoke a word. Year in and year out he tramped about the state, obtaining his food from the kind-hearted people along the route. Always visiting the same houses, knocking at the kitchen door and pointing to his mouth, his wants were supplied. With almost no variation he made his appearance at each place every thirty four days.

For twenty five years he has been a familiar character. He was at first a terror to the timid, and especially to children whose mothers used to threaten them with the "Old Leather Man" if they were naughty, but he soon became an object only of pity and curiosity; for he never spoke and never harmed human or animal. He was never known to sleep in a house except in the rare instances when he was arrested and detained a few days by the authorities in charge of the poor. He wore nothing but leather, fashioned into rude garments by himself, slept in caves in bad weather and in the woods in fair weather, his only utterance was a word that sounded like "ver-e-rum," and he ate sparingly of such food as the charitably disposed gave him.

Strangers generally supposed him to be of Indian blood, he was so swarthy; but old residents say that he was quite fair when they first saw him. All attempts to discover his origin had ceased, when the "blizzard" of last March set in motion an inquiry which solved the mystery. He was found almost dead with cold, pneumonia resulted and when almost at the point of death he became rational—not an uncommon thing with people of disordered intellects. A full account of him was published, which attracted the attention of parties in France and led to his complete identification and this strange history.

His name was Jules Bourglay, a native of Lyons, France, and was but 54 years old, though he looks 70. When a youth he fell in love with the daughter of a wealthy leather merchant, who was induced to give him a trial in that business, with the promise that if successful he should marry his sweetheart. He devoted himself earnestly to the business, and engaged heavily in speculative investments just before the crash of 1857. Leather declined 40 per cent. in value almost in a day; his prospective father-in-law was ruined, and drove the young man away with bitter curses for having so heavily involved the firm. He became a maniac, and after two years in the asylum was discharged as incurable but harmless. He soon disappeared, and all trace of him was lost for a time; but it was eventually discovered that he had reached Connecticut. Proofs of the identity of Jules Bourglay and the "Old Leather Man" were complete. But with the return of comparative health, his mania returned; he escaped from the hospital and became a wanderer again.

IT TORE UP THE SIDEWALK.

An Electric Subway Creates Quite an Excitement in New York.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Shortly before 12 o'clock a loud report startled the crowds of passers-by at the junction of Fifth avenue, Broadway and Twenty-third streets. A terrible explosion had taken place. A large portion of the sidewalk on Twenty-third street, just off the junction and on the side of the street next to the Fifth Avenue hotel was blown high into the air.

Showers of stones and fragments of the flagging fell on the passers-by. At least six persons were thrown down and more or less injured, none seriously. The windows of the store on the corner under the Fifth Avenue hotel were shattered. There is a huge hole in the sidewalk next to the hotel on Twenty-third street. It was found that the explosion was due to an electric subway.

Chicago Secures Catcher Sommers.

BOSTON, March 25.—Pres. Pat Soden has been offered $7,500 from the Chicago club for Catcher Sommers. After consulting with Director Prince a few moments, President Soden wired White Sox stating that they could accept the offer, and would wire Nick Young at once to release the player.

FISHERY QUESTION.

The Dominion Government Decides to Issue Licenses for Another Year.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—Hon. William Foster, minister of finance, has the following to say regarding the decision of the dominion government to resume the issue of fishery licenses under the modus vivendi:

"The government has come to the conclusion to keep the modus vivendi for another year. Last year closed with President Cleveland's threat of retaliation and we had no intimation as to what would be the course of the incoming president. The modus vivendi was kept in force last year with the co-operation of Newfoundland and all licenses granted under it expired at the end of the year. The fishing season will not begin until the latter part of March, and there was no necessity for action regarding the policy of the current year until the fishing season commenced. Negotiations were in progress with the Newfoundland government, and both were desirous of obtaining the tone of President Harrison's message before a final conclusion is arrived at. That message contained nothing unfriendly to the government and did not intimate any renewal of the strained relation. The government, therefore, came to the conclusion, acting in concert with the Newfoundland government, to continue the modus vivendi for the present year with a view to leaving the way open for resumption of negotations if any desire is found on the part of the United States."

"What about closing Behring sea to foreign fishing vessels?"

"It seems to be required by law that the president of the United States shall issue each year a proclamation stating the condition of the laws which regulate the fishing in the Behring sea. This has been done. They claim the whole sea to the westerly boundary formerly claimed by Russia, but it is a claim the maritime powers of the world are not likely to acquiesce in."

KILLED HIS STEPMOTHER.

A Disagreement About Division of Property Leads to a Terrible Tragedy.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 26.—The Sun's Charleston, W. Va., special says: Information has just reached here that last Saturday Thomas Woods, who lives on Donnally's Fork of Mud river, in Lincoln county, near Tornado postoffice, sent word to his stepmother, Mrs. Woodson Woods, that one of her neighbors across the hill was sick and wanted her to come immediately. He concealed himself behind a tree, near a path, to await her coming, and when she approached stepped out and fired a revolver full at her breast, the bullet taking effect just below the nipple. She fell to the ground. To make sure of his work Woods shot her again in the neck, and afterwards dragged her to a cliff near by and dropped her over it to the rocks below.

Shortly afterwards the woman recovered sufficiently to give an alarm, which was heard by men getting out cross-ties, who went to her assistance, accompanied by Woods, who professed entire ignorance of the matter. She was conscious and related the story of the shooting, accusing Woods of being her assassin. When she had finished her narrative Mrs. Woods expired. The only known cause for the crime was a disagreement between Woods and his stepmother about the division of property belonging to his father. Woods is now in jail.

HE WANTS TO RUN.

Jack H. Gibson Challenges Any Man in the World to Run Seventy-Five Yards.

BOSTON, March 26.—The following letter has been received Capt. A. W. Cook, of the Police News.

"WATERLOO HOTEL,
DURHAM, Eng., March 15.

Capt. A. W. Cook:

"DEAR SIR—As I have seen, lately, challenges in all sorts of papers from Harry Bethune, of America, wishing to run any man in the world, I, Jack H. Gibson, who leave England for America on the 16th of this month, will run Harry Bethune seventy-five, 100 or 125 yards for from $100 to $2,500 a side to start by pistol, George Turner, of Philadelphia, to be pistol firer, in any of the following places in America: Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburg or Cleveland. As I mean business and no bluffs, all that Bethune has now to do is to deposit a forfeit with your paper and I will cover it immediately on my return. All I want is a fair start and no brag, or if the above challenge is not accepted, I will run any man in the world seventy-five yards for the same amount.

"JACK GIBSON,
"Champion of the World."

KENTUCKY OUTLAWS.

The Winchester Rifle Again Brought Into Use and the Banks Thinned.

PINEVILLE, Ky., March 26.—The arrest of Gen. Sowder, of the Yellow-Creek faction, by the Turner faction, last Thursday, and the further arrest of Harvey Turner, John Crook Turner and John Cadle, of the Turner faction, and the transportation of two of them to the Tazwell, Tenn., jail, and the removal of Sowder to the Standford jail was followed yesterday by the killing of Alvis Turner by James Burch, and the killing of Burch by Jeff King.

They met in the road, and Turner fired at Burch, the ball striking his gun. Burch then replied with his Winchester, killing Turner. Jeff King then killed Burch. With four in jail and two dead the ranks of the outlaws are getting thin.

SERIOUS LOSS TO A VILLAGE.

An Illinois Town Almost Entirely Destroyed By Fire.

CLINTON, Ill., March 26.—A fire at Kenny, DeWitt county, last night destroyed $100,000 worth of property, including more than twenty stores and business houses. Among the greatest losers are: C. Howard & Company, general store; Crockett & Company, general store; Robins, general store; H. Beattie, buggies and harness; Gallagher, furniture; Merriman, hardware.

The fire broke out in Merriman's place at 8 p. m. The Clinton fire department went to the rescue on a special train and saved the hotel, the Illinois Central depot and the Kent elevator.

No Clew Discovered.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 26.—There is no clew, as yet, to the identity of the person who threw the Paris green in the well furnishing the water supply to the residence of Senator B. F. Cook. The members of the family who were made ill by drinking the water will recover.

Banquet to Parnell.

He Will Be Entertained at the National Liberal Club.

GLADSTONE WILL PRESIDE.

The Enthusiasm Over Mr. Parnell's Success in the Times Case Is Hourly Increasing—Germany's New Socialist Laws. Various Other Foreign News.

LONDON, March 26.—The enthusiasm over the success of Mr. Parnell in turning the tables on The Times and its backers has manifested itself in a proposal, followed by prompt arrangements to carry it out, to entertain Mr. Parnell at a banquet on April 11. The affair will undoubtedly take place at the National Liberal club, and it is understood that Mr. Gladstone will preside and that a sufficient number of invitations to tax the capacity of the club to the utmost will be issued.

As public condemnation of Attorney General Webster's connection with The Times' case and his questionable conduct in the matter increases so does public sympathy with Mr. Parnell and his associates also increase, while even his bitterest enemies are impelled to applaud his bearing in the consequent controversy in the house of commons and elsewhere.

The Daily News in scathing leader points out that the utter collapse of Sir Richard E. Webster is glaringly shown by the fact that Mr. Charles Hall, queen's counsel, Tory member for Chesterton, is the only lawyer in the house of commons who attempted to defend him.

It is noticeable that The Standard makes no editorial comments on the position in which the attorney general is placed.

A Great Commercial Disturbance.

LONDON, March 26.—The Statist considers that the Paris crisis has crippled the producing and consuming power of France. It says that large numbers of workmen will be thrown out of employment, who will generally consent throwing discredit on the government and increasing Boulanger's chances, which the now responsive policy is not likely to counteract. The effect abroad is also great. With the leading powers of France crippled, Russia will be less friendly to France, and the aggressive policy of Russia will be checked. Russia, Austria and Italy will find greater difficulty in borrowing, and the prospect of peace will be thereby increased. The inevitable crippling of trade in France will injure trade in all Europe, and disturb eastern and South American commerce.

Socialist Meetings Prohibited.

LONDON, March 26.—The magistrates of Dundee have issued an order prohibiting the holding of Socialist meetings, owing to the conflicts which have recently taken place there between the socialists and the Salvation Army. Sunday the leader of the Dundee Socialists attempted to address a crowd of 1,500 people who had assembled in High street in obedience to a call from the secretary of the organization in defiance of the order. The police promptly appeared upon the scene and arrested the would-be speaker. A tumult ensued, which resulted in the serious injury of many people in the crowd who were either crushed or thrown down and trampled upon.

Germany's New Socialist Laws.

BERLIN, March 26.—The new Socialist laws have been published. They provide that persons convicted of inciting one class against another, of attacking the foundations of public or social order, viz: Marriage, religion, the monarchy or property, shall be imprisoned for three years. Those convicted a second time may be forbidden to reside in certain places. Newspapers offending a second time shall be suppressed. Socialists who have been expelled cannot return within five years of the adoption of the new code, unless by police permission.

Gladstone's Sad Journey.

LONDON, March 26.—Mr. Gladstone, accompanied by his son, Rev. Stephen Gladstone, rector of Howarden, arrived at Fasque yesterday to attend the funeral of his brother, the late Sir Thomas Gladstone, bart. The reverend son of the ex-premier will conduct the burial services of his uncle.

Germany Preparing for War.

A PARTY DECISION.

Indiana's New Police Bill Passed on by the Superior Court.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26. The superior court room was densely packed yesterday morning with anxious listeners to the opinions handed down on the subject of the constitutionality of the police and public works bill passed by the legislature and intended to place certain departments of the city under boards selected by the general assembly. Much to the disappointment of the Democrats, the two Republican judges—Howe and Walker—submitted an opinion against the constitutionality of the law while Judge Taylor, Democrat, ruled in favor of the new appointees.

Judge Howe, who wrote the majority opinion, based his conclusions entirely upon the fact that the legislature was special, and declares that "if the legislature has power to pass such acts as these it may also pass similar acts applying to all the cities in the state, and if this may be done it may abolish the board of commissioners of Marion county and all other counties in the state and create boards with power to construct, repair and control all public buildings, roads and bridges and exercise all the functions now exercised by such board of commissioners."

An appeal to the supreme court was asked and granted.

A Man Killed and Eaten by Hog.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 26.—A special from Clifton Springs, N. Y., to The Post-Express says: Tompkins Warner, a wealthy and respected farmer residing three miles south of here, was found dead yesterday morning in the pig pen. His face had been eaten beyond recognition by the hogs. Mr. Warner was 70 years old and very decrepit, and it is thought he slipped and fell, and being unable to rise or defend himself, was set upon by the hogs and killed.

TUESDAY, - - - MARCH 26.

THE ladies who foolishly accuse the STAR of partiality in advertising the church entertainments for tonight and tomorrow night show a very unkind and uncharitable disposition. Indeed the fault-finding smacks of unappreciation of the courtesies that we extend the churches in giving almost unlimited free advertising. If the Musical Soiree has received more attention than the Chocolate Drill it is because its management has been more industrious in sending in copy, for we have given space to all that came for both. This paper is non-sectarian and to the best of our recollection the editor is a Baptist who favors neither sprinkling or pouring, but plenty of water. We insist on being impartial, as to the churches especially, and the fault-finders will do us the justice to say so if they will reason with themselves in a Christian spirit. The Chocolate Drill is at Music Hall tonight.

A LITTLE tussle is on the string between the Mirror and Independent before the Council. The former published the Clerk's annual exhibit at the order of the Mayor and the latter published the same advertisement at the instance of Clerk Ault, and both expect to be paid though only one publication is required. There will probably be some little racket when the allowance of bills comes. The proper way would have been to publish the exhibit in the Daily STAR, THE city paper.

THIS would be delightful weather in which to give waterworks construction a promising start. But we are still waiting. Really, Eastern contractors are not such promising and obliging fellows after they secure a franchise as they are before, and we make this remark without any personal application. Such a course is largely human nature the world over—even great moral political parties promise more than they absolutely practice.

MAKING MAPLE SYRUP

A Letter From the Western Reserve Describing a Camp and Its Manufacture of Sweets.

WELLINGTON, O., March 25.—For the past week your correspondent has been rusticating among the famous Western Reserve people. The pretty little town of Wellington, our present headquarters, is situated on the main line of the C., C., C., and I., forty miles west of Cleveland, and has the additional railroad advantages of the eastern branch of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, recently built.

The country surrounding is the famous land of meadows and—milk, bees and—buttermilk, and abounds with sugar works and cheese factories. The land is rolling and nearly every farmer can boast of clear, cool springs, and it is the best grazing land in the State.

Saturday we spent in the country and visited the sugar works of P. W. Smith & Son, whose delicious amber syrup and sugar are well known to Marion people. The season has been an unusually short one, but the quality of sap was never finer. The light frost of Friday night gave sufficient promise of a "run," and we—the ladies of the household—were invited to drive down to the camp. Accordingly, after dinner, we packed ourselves into the family carriage and sallied forth, and a short drive through numerous gates and across meadows, where grazed herds of sleek contented-looking cattle, and we came in sight of the "sugar" house and could occasionally get whiffs of the savory steam pouring out of the huge ventilators. The sugar grove surrounding presented a novel sight. From each tree, for it is almost exclusively a maple grove, was suspended a tin sap tub with a projecting cover to protect the contents from rain, snow or leaves and into which, through a short iron tube, the liquid sweetness runs. In the sugar house we found one of the celebrated Champion Evaporators, manufactured by G. H. Grim at Hudson, O. This is one of the most perfect arrangements for the condensing of maple sap into sugar ever invented. It is a self-feeding, self regulating series of galvanized iron pans, whose corrugated surface presents greater heating facilities. Each pan is divided into two compartments and the boiling syrup is conducted from one into the other by syphons, presenting a graduated scale of syrup in as many different stages of completeness. In the first pan you see the raw sap, in the last a clean, amber molasses, suggesting tempting visions of the crisp, brown griddle cakes our mothers used to make.

They were gathering sap and we were invited to join the excursion. No seat was offered on this novel conveyance, but we were invited to a position beside the driver and given a chance to grasp with both hands the huge sap tub in the center of the boat; at any rate, we used both hands and found it quite necessary, as our track led us over hills and into surprising little valleys that sorely tempted us to either put our arms about the handsome driver or—jump into the tub for greater safety; but, as one performance would have been about as disastrous as the other, we wisely refrained.

The greatest annoyance these sugar makers encounter is the attendance of millers that, in spite of the precaution of cover and strainer, are attracted to the tubs and court a suicidal death in the saccharine substance.

The capacity of this evaporator is about fifty-five barrels of sap in twenty-four hours, making fifty gallons of syrup. So far this year the run has been light, but the quality is superior to former years. The number of trees tapped at this camp is between seven and eight hundred.

This country is not only noted for its numerous sugar works, but is dotted over with cheese factories, where thousands of pounds of the creamy, delicious compound known as the Western Reserve cheese are manufactured. In Wellington we find the largest cheese depots in the northwest. The proprietors, Horr, Warner & Company, do a business as that can scarcely be conceived except by actual observation. The weekly shipments at the present time averages 92,760 pounds of cheese and 1264 pounds of butter. The cheese boxes are also manufactured here, one firm alone turning out 1000 per day.

The raising of grain is not a successful feature of this country, and what little wheat one sees is poor and will not be half a crop. Many of the people devote their attention to bee culture, and many fine apiaries can be found, where honey, either extracted or in comb, is produced.

The roads are dusty in many places, and rain is as badly needed here as in Marion.

A brief trip to Cleveland, Oberlin and vicinity will conclude our sojourn in this land "flowing with milk and honey," and we will return to our own "city of maples and churches," to mewed and invigorated.

NATALIE.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

But Little Interest Manifested—Three Re-Nominations.

The Democratic ward caucuses were held on Monday night. Not much interest was manifested in the meetings, owing doubtless to the small city ticket. The nominations for ward offices were as follows:

First ward—James G. Fairbanks for Councilman and John Jones for Assessor.

Second ward—Dr. A. B. McMurray for Councilman and Peter Beerbower for Assessor.

Third ward—F. R. Salter for Councilman and Isaiah Jones for Assessor.

Fourth ward—Chas. W. Leiller for Councilman and Rob't Hopkins for Assessor.

Microbe Killer.

San Francisco, Cal., March 19, 1889

Editor Marion Daily STAR.

Dear Sir:—I see an article in your paper of March 6th, 1889, headed "Marion County Medical Society," wherein your doctors do me great injustice, by condemning the greatest invention of the age, an invention that the whole medical world could not discover, and are still working in the darkness to find it. They use words in that article such as "Quack medicine that is doing disastrous results," etc. I am the inventor of that "Microbe Killer." I feel perfectly competent to defend myself, and have this to say: Who was it that brought this wonderful invention so quickly over the whole United States? Is it not the public itself that used it, because it cured what quack medicine could not do. Therefore they spread it in all directions. Who is starting all these factories now in operation? The merits of the Microbe Killer induces the public to advertise it, and the doctors in Marion county are doing their share to advertise it, although in a different light, but the public certainly understands it.

The time is not far away when the public will rise up and thank the Lord that a man not in the profession has found the remedy that will make a stop to all quack medicine and butcheries as now practiced under the cloak of the so called "medical science." The profession sees the light, but they try to hide it under the bushel, so that nobody shall see it. Now, I am ready to face ignorance by demonstrating the laws of nature, when I say and show, through the microscope and my cures, that there is but one disease for cause of disease) which enters our blood, and this is fermentation or living matter, called fungus, bacteria or microbes. What microbe it is is immaterial to me and the patient, as I have discovered nature's mystery, how to kill them, with a perfectly harmless remedy, which can not be said of poisonous drugs. I have never been accused of killing a person, even not hurt him, but I can show that I can cure any disease, sickness or pain, unless it is too late, or the person has been drugged so full that the Microbe Killer failed to cure them.

WM. RADAM, M. K.

Frank Mayo in the Royal Guard.

Joe Howard, Jr., in speaking of Mr. Mayo in this play says: "Not to see Frank Mayo as d'Artagnan, the Gascon adventurer in the 'Royal Guard,' is to miss a grand dramatic treat. The play is by Mayo and John G. Wilson, and is the best constructed romance drama of the day. The authors have most cleverly transferred the ideas of the author of 'Les Trois Mousquetaires' into sterling dramatic shape, and the authors have caught the spirit of the dramatists in their rendering of the characters. That of d'Artagnan shows such dash, breeziness, humor, daring and self possession, tempered by a comical air of modesty, that the ladies have all fallen in love with him, and men's hearts swell at the portrayal of his brave acts and noble demeanor, even while he is in rags, having only his good sword, 'Bobby,' as his friend."

A Marion Boy Dead.

Frank and Miss Nettie Zuck were called to Cincinnati Monday night by a telegram announcing the death of their brother Edward, whose sudden illness was announced last Friday. The deceased was formerly a Marion boy and was working in Cincinnati when taken ill. He was about twenty-one years of age. The remains will be interred at Marysville on Wednesday.

Matrimonial Infelicity.

Sarah E. Olds has brought suit for divorce from Oscar H. Olds, charging him with failure to support and neglect of duty.

Cora A. Baker prays the court for a legal separation from Jeremiah Baker, because Jeremiah has been found guilty of diverting himself at Mattie Tweed's late resort of the sporting fraternity.

Prohibition Township and Corporation.

The Prohibitionists of the City and Township will meet in Convention at the City Hall, Wednesday evening March 27th at 7:30 o'clock to nominate candidates for the various township and corporation officers.

City Expenditure.

EDITOR STAR:—Substantiating my statement in regard to the revenue of Marion corporation, please call attention to the fact that Bucyrus had total receipts including balance in 1888 of $56,000 and expended $37,000. ENTERPRISE

A law suit between two Ulster county (N. Y.) men over two old horses valued at $1 each has already cost $300.

English army authorities are considering a project for enlisting young boys and letting them grow up into soldiers.

More than twenty million acres of land in Washington territory, or nearly one-half the whole area, remain unsurveyed.

Fencing has become so popular among ladies upon the continent that many convents include it in their curriculum.

A Florida vegetable grower has contracted to deliver three tons of watermelon seeds to northern seed houses next autumn.

A man who has been teaching in an old cabin near Blaine, W. T., climbed up into the garret one day and found there a skeleton.

The Lake View Cemetery association of Cleveland is unable to meet the interest on its $500,000 stock. Garfield's grave and monument are in the cemetery.

An Albany physician says he has never known a case of cancer among the Hebrews, and thinks their exemption from the disease is due to abstinence from pork.

Mr. Smith, of Falls township, O., being of an unusually prudent mind, has purchased his coffin and tombstone, the goods to be delivered on the day of his death.

Peach stones find ready sale at $6 per ton in Vaca valley, Cal. They are used as fuel, "burning as long as coal and giving more heat." Apricot stones are also burned.

Two ruffians of Bodie, Nev., entered the room of a man against whom they had a grudge, tied him to a bedpost, filled his eyes with red pepper and left him to suffer.

A San Francisco photographer, who testified in court that his wife didn't know where he was, was given forty days in the house of correction to give her an opportunity to find him.

A Grand Rapids man, who was arrested for gambling, alleged that he had lost all his money, had lost his clothes and lost them, and was sleeping in the gambling room for shelter when pulled.

In San Francisco a man and his wife lost their minds through the excessive use of morphine and cocaine, and were sent to a hospital for the insane. One item in the husband's cocaine bill amounted to $5 per day.

The term "boss" is said to have got its name in this way: Capt. Cook first discovered the island of Australia. When he inquired its name of a native the latter replied, "Kangaroo," which in the Australian language is "I don't know."

A young woman of Ridgeway, Can., has had the banns of matrimony between herself and two of her lovers read in the parish church, the clergyman having decided that she is free to choose between them at the altar. This is a new and startling departure in weddings.

Trades people and shopkeepers in Russian Poland are being compelled to sign an agreement not to use the Polish language among themselves or to customers. For the first breaking of the agreement they are fined, and if they break it twice their shops are closed by the police.

It is figured out that the railroads of the world are worth nearly $300,000,000,000, or nearly one fourth of the wealth of the civilized nations, or more than a quarter of their invested capital, and that all the ready money in the world would buy only about one third of them.

The athletic culture fad, which originated in Boston, and has been steadily spreading, has now reached Milwaukee, where young women are evincing a lively interest in it. A new feature of the fad is the craze for fencing, and boxing two masculine accomplishments, which, for some reason, are very dear to the feminine mind.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN GOLD.

Barium sells for $975 a pound, when it is sold at all, and calcium is worth $1,800 a pound. Cerium is a shade higher—its cost is $1631 an ounce, or $1,920 a pound.

Gold is worth about $240 per pound, troy; platinum, $20, and silver about $12. Nickel would be quoted at about 60 cents, and pure aluminum $8 to $30 the troy pound.

These seem to look like fabulous prices, but they do not reach the highest point; chromium brings $300, cobalt falls to about half the price of silver, while didymium is the same price as cerium, and erbium $10 cheaper than the ounce than calcium, or just $1,650 per pound.

If those debts of the Vanderbilts be not overstated, it amounts to nearly $300,000,000. With this sum they could purchase 312 tons of gold and have something left over, but they couldn't buy two tons of gallium, that rare metal being worth $8,250 an ounce. With this metal the highest price is reached, and it may well be called the rarest and most precious of all.

Glucinum is worth $250 an ounce, indium, $175, terbium, $168 a pound, lanthanum, $125, and lithium $100 an ounce. Niobium cost $15 an ounce; osmium, palladium, platinum, potassium and rhodium bring respectively $70, $45, $40, $31 and $12 per pound. Yttrium costs $128 an ounce, tantalum, $111, tellurium, $9, thorium, $175, vanadium, $350, uranium, $111, and zirconium, $25 an ounce.

WOMEN WHO PLAY BILLIARDS.

One of the best women billiard experts is Mme Vimaux, wife of the French champion.

Mme Garnier, wife of the erratic and wonderful player, excels in fancy and trick billiards.

Mrs Lee says is expert at the game. She prefers it to old English game to the French cartoons.

The present Duchess of Marlborough is an ardent admirer of the game. She is great on long cushion fellows and round the table shots, but is not much of a rail player.

Patti is very fond of the game, so much so that a few years ago she invited Slosson visit her in Wales so she could see him play. She has a magnificent billiard parlor in the castle.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Princess Christian has joined the Plumage league, the object of which is to discourage ladies from wearing feathers.

Mrs. Humphry Ward has forwarded to President Harrison a copy of "Robert Elsmere" bearing her signature.

Alexander of Battenberg's bride, Fraulein Loisinger, is the daughter of the valet of a former Austrian general officer.

Annie E. Dowling, of Austin, Tex., was presented with a handsome gold medal as a reward for heroism during the war at Sabine Pass.

Kate Lucas, a tall, well built, rosy cheeked girl, who can ride the wildest mustang without bridle or blanket, is the pride of the Colorado foothills.

Mrs. Heaton, sister of President Harrison, paid, it is asserted, $22 on inauguration day for a cab to take her from the Arlington hotel to the Capitol.

Paris women now have a whim for natural flowers. They are worn on the shoulders, epaulette fashion, where they are in no danger of being crushed.

Mrs. Noble, wife of the secretary of the interior, comes from Northampton, Mass., where her father was for twenty-five years proprietor of a large sanitarium.

Mme. Louise von Schiller, who has just died at Stuttgart at the age of 85 years, was the daughter-in-law of the poet, the wife of his eldest son, Karl von Schiller.

An 18-year-old girl was arrested in San Francisco the other day, who testified that for the past year she had been consuming over $2 worth of morphine daily.

Miss Caroline Geisler-Schubert, a grand niece of Franz Schubert, has been giving pianoforte concerts in London, and is spoken of in terms of praise by the critics.

Queen Victoria, who traveled to France as Countess of Balmoral, took her own bed and bedding with her, a custom which her majesty never breaks, even if invited to stay in a royal palace.

A new operatic singer, in the person of Fraulein Irene Abendroth, a young Polish lady of 17, has just made a highly successful appearance in the Austrian capital in Bellini's "Sonnambula."

At a recent evening reception to the Quarante club, in New Orleans, all the ladies present appeared in costumes representing the classic heroines of ancient Greece. The part of Iphigenia was assumed by Miss Winnie Davis, the "Daughter of the Confederacy."

Complaint is heard in New York of women who talk audibly during the drawing room readings. Lately a reader stopped, smiled pleasantly and said she would wait until the ladies finished their conversation. Chatter is heard at church, at the opera and the theatre.

The empress of Austria carries a traveling basket fitted up so that she is able to make soup on the cars. It has silver saucepans with gold handles, and the empress declares that she can make in it better broth than any chef can concoct.

Mrs. Mackay, who is just now in Paris, has ordered some marvelously original and artistic toilets. One is in old rose satin, covered with white lace that is studded with real pearls, while the sleeves to the low necked bodice consist of strings of precious stones valued at $40,000.

A fashionable young woman in New York has undergone a remarkable surgical operation, long and painful, by which her tip tilted nose became an organ of pure Grecian design. The cruel charge is made that the new nose does not suit the general conformation of her face.

The new Duchess of Sutherland was by birth named Miss May Mitchell, her father being Rev. Dr. Mitchell, of Oxford, a great scholar and a friend of Lord Beaconsfield and others of celebrity. She married Capt. Arthur Blair, whom she met while he was at Oxford. They had not been married long, and his death is recent.

The jacket which the empress of Russia wore at the time of the railroad accident at Borki recently has a hole as large as a hand torn in the left side, and the buttons have been crushed, evidently by a shock. She has ordered a duplicate of the garment, minus these reminders of her narrow escape, from the Paris dressmaker who made the original.

Mrs. Henrietta Stannard, the lady known as "John Strange Winter," subjected herself for many years to a severe literary apprenticeship before publishing her first book. Most of the characters in "Bootles' Baby" and other military tales are studies from life. She was born in York, England, in 1856. She is the only daughter of Rev. H. V. Palmer.

CARE OF THE EYES.

Shades on lamp or gas burners should be of "milk" or ground glass; never of colored glass.

Never sleep opposite a window which will throw a flood of strong light on your eyes when you wake in the morning.

When bathing the face do not open the eyes under water, as this is apt to be injurious to the epithelial covering of the eye.

In all institutions, particularly for children, where the eyes are required to do close work, the proportion of the square surface of the windows to the square surface of the floor should never fall below one to four.

The short sighted eye is essentially a diseased eye, and should be treated as such. It affects by preference those who use their eyes constantly for fine or near work, and is almost unknown among the uncivilized nations.

To bathe the eyes properly, take a large basin of cold water, bend the head close over it, and with both hands throw the water with some force on the gently closed lids. This has something of the same effect as a shower bath, and has a toning up influence which water applied in any other way has not.

When children work by light which falls in their faces they are apt to bend the body forward so as to shade the eyes by the head, or else twist it around so that the light shall fall on the page. Both of these positions are pernicious. There is great danger of the chest becoming narrow and contracted and of the spine becoming curved.

COINCIDENCES.

George Washington died the last hour of the day, the last day of the week, of the last month of the year, of the last year of the last century.

A few years ago the writer noticed in the immediate vicinity of the residence of the late Wendell Phillips, in Boston, the somewhat odd coincidence of a broker's sign bearing the firm name of "Wendell and Phillips."

A notable sign on one of Boston's busiest streets bears the remarkable legend, "Cole and Wood, dealers in Wood and Coal," the members of this firm evidently having an unusually fine perception of the "poetical fitness of things."

A New York lawyer named Doolittle once unwittingly entered into partnership with a brother barrister named Steele, but a singular lack of clients soon became painfully noticeable, and it was found advisable to dissolve, the name of the firm proving altogether too suggestive to prospective patrons.

THE LATEST IN JEWELS.

Agate toads are again cropping up as shawl pin heads.

Colored amber is being extensively utilized for parasol handles.

A cute little silver fan covers a blue plush pocket pin cushion.

Oxidized silver cucumbers are an odd idea in sugar sprinklers.

The demand for rubies is said to be much in excess of that of last year.

Tortoise shell combs are seen with a double row of rubies tracing the tops.

A very attractive cachou box in silver, just introduced, has its cover in repousse.

Pretty as a scarfpin is a turquois set in a diamond shaped setting and a pearl at each angle.

Lockets of pink coral, with either a pearl or a diamond in the center, are remarkably pretty.

Combinations of stained ivory and silver now go to make up the more fashionable cane handles.

The favorite gold thimbles have tops incrusted with garnets and tiny raised initials on their edges.

Solid silver penholders with quaint figures engraved thereon are interesting additions to office accouterments.

Fruit designs in natural colored enamel are applied to lace pins of heavy filigree, making a most charming ornament.

Pale yellow enamel balls now form hairpin tops, and are covered with filigree gold, with here and there a tiny ruby.

The natural bark of a tree twisted and and knotted, and covered with a silver deposit, makes a very attractive umbrella top.

Claret jugs of colored and cut glass, with bright silver mountings, have made their appearance on the dining room table.

A correctly defined thumb, down to the first joint, is one of the brightest and newest conceptions in oxidized silver match boxes.

A brooch of simple but tasty character is formed of a circle of vermicelli gold beads graduating in size each way from the center.

A golden horseshoe nail, set with precious stones, is twisted and shaped as a finger ring, and may be classed as a genuine oddity.

A double pronged hairpin, of lace pattern, is formed of two interlocked shepherd crooks, one of chased gold and the other of Roman.

Gold garter clasps, richly chased and set with a ruby, a diamond and a turquois, were recently ordered for one of the "upper ten."

The silver butter dish of the future will be looked upon as incomplete without the cut glass centers that have been added to them lately.

A breastpin of unique design is a Roman gold clothespin set horizontally on a knife edged bar, the head being supplied by closely set pearls.

A style of finger ring that seems to take has three narrow bars of gold, one set with small diamonds, one with pearls and one with turquoises.

A very pretty salt stand of silver and silver gilt has fluted sides and a rope border running around the edge. With this comes a small plate to match.

On a tiny ladder of gold an enameled frog is seen climbing toward a moonstone head, which is set in a narrow gold band, the whole forming a unique scarf pin.

A charming watch case ornamentation recently noted was a polished gold easel sunk into the case, on which a square diamond frame, inclosing a tiny landscape painting, also found place.

The cameo, it seems, after having been relegated to the past, is about to be revived. Well known jewelers are offering them in cuff buttons, mounted in gold wire settings, with pleasing effect.

Made to order is a tea set of Dresden china, decorated with fern leaves in silver deposit. Its beauty and singular character can be easier appreciated when it is understood that the smooth surface of the china is with great difficulty made to retain the silver.

An ingenious idea in peppers is one fashioned as a coffee mill. The beans are placed in the upper part, and each revolution of the handle grinds them and sprinkles the pepper through a perforated bottom, the mill thus performing the two functions at one time.—Jewelers' Review.

BRIDGES OF THE WORLD.

Coalbrookdale bridge, England, is the first cast iron bridge. It was built over the Severn in 1779.

The covered bridge at Pavia, over the Ticino, was built in the Fourteenth century. The roof is held by 100 granite columns.

The bridge at Havre de Grace, over the Susquehanna, is 3,271 feet long, and is divided into twelve wooden spans, resting on granite piers.

The cantilever bridge, over the Niagara, is built almost entirely of steel. Its length is 810 feet, the total weight is 3,000 tons, and the cost was $900,000.

The Bridge of Sighs, at Venice, over which condemned prisoners were transported from the hall of judgment to the place of execution, was built in 1589.

The Rialto, at Venice, is said to have been built from the designs of Michael Angelo. It is a single marble arch, 98¾ feet long, and was completed in 1591.

The bridge of the Holy Trinity, at Florence, was built in 1569. It is 322 feet long, constructed of white marble, and stands unrivaled as a work of art.

Tay bridge; old bridge over the Tay at Dundee, destroyed Dec. 28, 1879. New bridge about two miles long; has 85 piers; height above high water, 77 feet.

The bridge at Barton, over the Trent, was formerly the longest bridge in England, being 1,545 feet. It is now partly removed. Built in the Twelfth century.

The new London bridge is constructed of granite, from the designs of L. Rennie. It was commenced in 1824, and completed in about seven years, at a cost of $7,200,000.

The Niagara suspension bridge was built by Roebling in 1852-55, at a cost of $400,000. It is 245 feet above water, 821 feet long, and the strength is estimated at 1,200 tons.

Clifton suspension bridge, at Bristol, has a span of 703 feet, at a height of 245 feet above the water. The carriage way is 20 feet wide and the footways 5½ feet wide. Cost, $500,000.

The Britannia bridge crosses the Menai strait, Wales, at an elevation of 103 feet above high water. It is of wrought iron, 1,511 feet long, and was finished in 1850. Cost, $3,000,000.

The old London bridge was the first stone bridge. It was commenced in 1176, and completed in 1209. Its founder, Peter of Colechurch, was buried in the crypt of the chapel erected on the center pier.

Brooklyn bridge was commenced under the direction of J. Roebling, in 1870, and completed in about thirteen years. It is 3,475 feet long and 133 feet high. The cost of building was nearly $15,000,000.

Could Not Prove the Charge.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 21.—In the case of Capt. Samuel H. Cottingham, of the oyster schooner Emma C. Scarlett, charged with cruelty to his crew, the jury in the United States court rendered a verdict of not guilty. Capt. Ben. Cottingham is now resting on the testimony of the same witnesses, is awaiting trial.

Wife Murderer Surrenders Himself.

CLEVELAND, O., March 26.—Sheller & McWatters' dry goods store has been closed by the sheriff on judgments for $60,000. Creditors all reside here except George Borgfeldt, of New York, who has a claim for $8,907. Liabilities are about $90,000; assets the same.

Walt Whitman's Joke.

Walt Whitman is not without a keen sense of the humorous. An ambitious young poet called on him the other day to show him a MS. tragedy entitled "Columbus." "Mr. Whitman," said he, "I should like to read you my drama, and get your opinion of its merits."

"No, I thank you," said Walt. "I've been paralyzed once."—Philadelphia Press.

MEN YOU MEET ON WASHINGTON'S GREAT THOROUGHFARE.

Some of the Jaunty Walkers Among the White Headed Boys of the United States Senate—How Sunset Cox's Mother Refused William Henry Harrison.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, March 25.—There is no other such place in which to see interesting men and famous men as Washington's Pennsylvania avenue. This is a promenade used almost daily by thousands of persons whose names are known from one end of the country to the other. Take up your station here, keep your eyes open, and soon you will have had glimpses of a hundred celebrities. There, for instance, stand two great men looking at the photographs displayed in a shop window. One is tall, wide, slow, massive, like a great Newfoundlander, the other, short, slight, quick, sprightly, like a terrier or spaniel. Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Harlan are much together. They are great chums, sitting side by side on the bench, living in adjacent houses, and walking or riding together to and from the Capitol. They are well matched only on the hypothesis that companions should show contrast. There is plenty of contrast here, for beside Fuller Harlan looks taller and wider, and beside Harlan Fuller seems shorter and more boyish. They are both full of boyish spirits, for that matter, laughing and joshing and cracking quiet jokes at each other over each other's photograph. None of the other members of the supreme court indulges in much pedestrianism. Bradley and Miller are too old, Matthews too ill, Gray too dignified, Lamar too lazy. The cabinet ministers are as yet too busy to do much walking on the avenue. Occasionally Mr. Blaine strides along for a block or two, the center of interest and curiosity. The secretary of state likes show windows, too, and often stops to look in them. President Harrison has become famous as a walker, but he rarely appears on the avenue. It is too public to suit him. When the president walks out he looks neither to the right nor the left. Show windows have no attractions for him, pretty girls are unable to catch his eye. There is quite a contrast between the president and the secretary of state as they are seen in pedestrianism. The president appears self absorbed, and passes acquaintances and even close friends without seeing them. Mr. Blaine is always looking out for familiar faces, and is fond of saluting people on the street. Vice President Morton is somewhat like the secretary of state in this. He likes walking, and while on his feet is a close observer of all that surrounds him. His half closed, twinkling eyes are very alert, and he has a warm, hearty way of greeting his friends. The president never or rarely smiles. Secretary Blaine looks pleasant without much smiling. The vice president seems always smiling, like a man fairly running over with good nature.

SENATOR HISCOCK AND THE OFFICE SEEKER.

Senator Quay is a good walker, but since March 4 he has kept off the avenue. A man who is as much sought and pestered by office-seekers as Senator Quay is, cannot afford to walk where the crowds are. Senator Gorman of Maryland is a rapid and enthusiastic pedestrian, who is often seen on the avenue. Four years ago Gorman couldn't stir without having a squad of place hunters at his heels. Now nobody molests him, and Quay, Spooner, Hiscock and other Republican senators are chased and dogged by the eager crowds. Handsome Hiscock has the most withering glance there is in town, and office seekers are actually afraid of him. Spooner is the spryest senator. It is understood he is pretty close to the president, and of course he is much sought after, but he has a way of dodging around that makes him a very difficult man to find. Senator Sherman nearly always rides to and from the Capitol, but can occasionally be seen loping along under an old, greasy slouch hat. He doesn't see or salute anybody unless he is spoken to. Quite different is Senator Allison, who has a very alert eye, which nobody escapes. Senator Blackburn has a hearty, effusive way of greeting his friends, particularly his Kentucky friends. There is more local pride among the Kentuckians who come to the capital than in the visitors from any other state. Just now Joe Blackburn is their idol. One recent day Blackburn was walking from the senate to his hotel when he met on the avenue one of his Kentucky constituents, a plain, humble sort of man, who had with him a little boy. As soon as the senator saw his constituent he called out to him in a tone that could have been heard on the other side of the avenue, and advanced with both arms outstretched. One arm he placed on his friend's shoulder and with the other grasped the visitor's hand. Then Blackburn noticed the little boy, and immediately seized the youngster and lifted him up.

"Is this your boy?" he asked of the proud father, "my God, what eyes! Here, boy, take this dollar and go buy yourself something."

It is said Blackburn knows half the people of Kentucky by name, and this a fair sample of his method of greeting them. No wonder he is popular.

Senator Blair, the benevolent man from New Hampshire, often walks down the avenue, generally alone and with a far away look in his blue eyes. One of his brother senators, who served with him on the pensions committee, says Blair used to lose his temper when the committee refused to vote for the claims of needy persons, and leave the room in high dudgeon. If the senator from New Hampshire could have his way no pension claim would be denied in the senate committee. He would vote to pension every man, woman and child in the United States.

The two senatorial Joneses are often seen walking together, the one from Nevada and the other from Arkansas, though the latter Jones never walks with anybody beside his colleague, Berry, when Berry is at hand. Jones and Berry are great chums. They sit together in the senate, lunch together down stairs, their families are intimate, they swear by each other. Old timers about the Capitol say this is the first case on record in which the two senators from a state have maintained such close friendship.

The Nevada Jones has a great scheme on hand. He want, the government to appropriate money for making irrigation experiments with dynamite. Senator Jones believes that if dynamite were sent up in the air by means of balloons and there exploded, the effect would be almost immediate rainfall in that neighborhood. He believes, further, that systematic exploding of dynamite in this way would reclaim all the arid, desert lands in the country.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon "the avenue" becomes liveliest. To the office seekers and celebrities are now added the thousands of department clerks of both sexes. The fair tamed "treasury girl" is in her glory, for she sallies forth for an hour's promenade in the sunlight before going home to dinner. But the treasury girl of the present is not the treasury girl of the past—of the time when corrupt or easy going officials connived at or shut their eyes to all that was going on about them. The average treasury girl of the present is rather old, somewhat blase, fond of powder, bangs, a few touches of color and all the arts so well known to women who are struggling against the encroachments of age. A singular fact noted as a procession of these "girls" mingle with the throng is that 90 per cent. of them wear fading veils.

STATE DEPARTMENT ANGLOMANIACS.

There was a time when the prettiest and most dashing girls in Washington were to be found in the treasury, but that is no longer the case. In the division of a certain chief of the interior department the old time treasury methods have been revived, and some day or other there will be a pretty explosion and scandal there.

It may surprise some people to learn that in this city, which gathers within its borders the belles of the nation, the two most beautiful girls are sisters, whose father is a Pennsylvania avenue photographer. The girls are usually in the gallery. They contrive somehow to join the throngs of promenaders on the avenue two or three times a day, and always create a sensation when they appear, turning the heads of great statesmen and grave judges old enough to be their grandfathers, and sending thrills of alternating ecstasy and despair through the breasts of the state department anglomaniacs. There are dudes in all the departments here at Washington, but anglomania of a most virulent type rages in the exclusive, aristocratic state department.

Representative Cox, who is always called "Sam" or "Sunset," comes along. His is not a very rugged figure now and his hair is getting thin and gray, but his eyes are as bright and his tongue as ready as ever. Nobody is able to look on Cox as anything but a youngster, because his wit and the variety and vivacity of his humor never grow old, but he is past threescore now. While a young man Cox dandled the present Mrs. W. C. Whitney on his knee.

"I have had a narrow escape from being president of the United States," said Sunset the other day, stopping on the avenue to talk with a group of his friends. If my mother hadn't refused the proffered hand of Gen. William Henry Harrison, I suppose I should be in the White House now. Gen. Harrison asked my mother to marry him, and though he had won some fame at that time, she gave him the mitten and stuck to and finally married the printer boy to whom she was engaged. See what a narrow escape I have had from being a great man."

There are so many notable men in these avenue throngs that one does not quickly tire of looking at them. Senator Aldrich, tall and handsome, swings along at a good gait. Even many millionaire Leland Stanford saunters by, looking in the shop windows. Ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, and Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur," pass now and then.

ROBERT GRAVES.

HER LITTLE POEM.

A Confiding Wife Gives Her Husband a Genuine Surprise.

"I had not intended to tell you, Billiger," said the young wife of Mr. McSwat, "but I can't keep a secret any longer."

"Is it possible, Lobelia," exclaimed Billiger, mercilessly, "that you have been able to keep a secret at all?"

"It is. And you would never guess it, either."

"Been making me a dressing gown or an embroidered night cap?"

"No."

"You haven't been running up a bill at Spekelton & Co.'s?" he inquired, with a suspicious look and a cold feeling in the region of his spine.

"Guess again."

"Been taking lessons at a cooking school?" he asked, paling visibly.

"No. Guess again."

A clammy perspiration broke out all over him and he leaned against the mantel for support as he gasped:

"Lobelia, is Aunt Jubilee coming to spend the summer with us?"

The young wife laughed gleefully.

"No," she answered. "You'll have to try again, Billiger."

"Tell me what it is," he said, with returning self command. "I feel as if I could stand any disclosure now."

"I think you're real mean, Billiger, but I will tell you. A little poem of mine is going to be published in the next Century Magazine."

"Whew!"

(This is the time honored way in which a long, low whistle of astonishment has always been represented in print by the most successful wrestlers with the language, from the Old Masters down to H. Rider Haggard. The reader, therefore, will kindly understand that Mr. Billiger McSwat gave utterance to a long, low whistle.)

"In the days of our courtship, Lobelia," he continued, staring hard at the ceiling, "you never told me you wrote poetry. I didn't know you were addicted to it, or"—

"Or what?" she demanded, with some asperity.

"Nothing—nothing!" he exclaimed, hastily. "And so you are to have a contribution in the next Century! How much is the editor to pay you for it, Lobelia?"

"I don't know. I haven't heard from him yet."

"Then how do you know he is going to print it?"

"How do I know? Because he hasn't returned it. I sent it to him nearly two weeks ago."

"O! You didn't. You inclosed stamps for return postage, of course?"

"Why, no, Billiger. I never thought of that. Is it customary?"

"Er—no! That is, not always," replied the young husband, mastering his emotion by a desperate effort. "It probably wasn't necessary in the case of your poem, Lobelia. And you have saved at least two cents!"

Mrs. McSwat was not exactly sure whether he was in earnest or not. She looked at him with some suspicion, but his countenance wore that look of unearthly gravity and innocence that may sometimes be seen on the face of a boy at school just after he had rolled a double handful of bird shot over the floor.

"Lobelia," he said, after a pause, "you haven't spoken of this—this poem of yours that is—er—ah—going to be printed next month to anybody else besides me, have you?"

"No."

"Then don't do it, Lobelia," he said. "If you can manage to hold in till the poem is printed, which"—and Billiger held his handkerchief to his face and coughed convulsively in it for a few moments—"which will be only two weeks longer, you know it will be all the greater surprise to everybody. And when that poem is printed in the magazine, my dear, I'll make you a present of a pair of diamond earrings."

The trusting young wife pillowed her head on his bosom in an ecstasy of gratitude, and as Billiger McSwat smoothed her golden hair and murmured in her ear soft assurances of his willingness to bankrupt himself, if necessary, in order to give her costly presents as a token of his pride and admiration—as soon as the poem appeared—he could feel himself growing meaner, and smaller, and more despicable every moment.

O young wives! Be warned in time. When temptations to write poetry for the magazines assail your souls do not yield. Resist them. It is a terrible thing to do anything that causes young husbands to feel themselves growing smaller than they are already!—Extract from "Frightful Warnings of History," from the French of Dennis Mulcahy.—Chicago Tribune.

A Green Lot.

Among the personal effects of a fakir arrested the other day on complaint of a hotel for non-payment of board was a wheel of fortune, and while detectives were examining this with a great deal of curiosity one of them found a hidden spring which was worked by pressing a button.

"What is this for?" he innocently asked.

"To stop the wheel at any desired point," was the answer.

"But why should you desire to stop it at any certain point?"

"Why should I? Suppose that a John Henry has laid his dollar on the figure 7. The pointer stops at that figure and he wins."

"But do you stop it then?"

"Certainly."

"To let him win?"

"Of course."

"I—I"—

"No, of course you don't, but I do. Next time there are from four to eight John Henrys with their dollars at '7,' and the pointer stops at 8. Sorry for you, gentlemen, but if you haven't traveled it's not my fault."—Detroit Free Press.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world most generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease preventer that has yet been discovered is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them.

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled system in a very short while, and then to buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? I vent out by a responsible house and exactly as represented. It costs but dollar for a very large bottle. Try once and you will never be so glad anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle, before you take it. Try it, and you will be happier than if you had found a genuine, for it really is a matter of health.

—Those who know say the musicale at Music Hall on Wednesday evening will be a rare treat

—Bobby Hall and L. H. Flocken were the guests of friends at Bucyrus Sunday and returned home Monday

—Mendelssohn would be amused if he could hear the Orchestral Club's two pianos and pretty sonatas, encore at Music Hall on Wednesday evening.

—Hygeian Ice Cold Direct Cream, cello and piano waltz most artistically rendered by Prof. Davis, Mr. O'Keene and Mrs. Davis at Music Hall on Wednesday evening.

Charles Carter, perhaps better known as Texas Charley, stopped over here a few hours while on his way from Columbus to Chicago, and entertained the boys with some fine rifle shooting.

H. M. Barnhart has purchased three vacant lots south on the corner of South and Vine streets, opposite the former J. H. Reed property, intending to make that location a site for his residence. The lots were bought of Mrs. Hummel. Mr. Barnhart will not build this season, but when he does he will doubtless erect a dwelling suited to the immense prosperity which he is enjoying as a product of his genius.

Col. Jno. B. Thomas, the good looking and affable cashier, has returned from Indiana with three admirable thoroughbred horses, three of whom have speed in them that make them attractive animals. Mr. Thomas secured them at the Lackey & Carmony consignation sales, at Cambridge City, and while there he visited the famous stables and closed with J. M. Huston, who was chairman of the Republican campaign committee in Indiana last fall.

Brother Against Brother.

Concerning the Leonzo Bros. who appear at Music Hall Thursday night, the Inter-Pa. Daily Times says: "In the seven-thirty crowds of people wending their way to the many places last evening was proof undeniable of the great hit Leonzo Bros. and their all star company have scored in this city. When the curtain arose on the first act of "Brother Against Brother" there was not a unoccupied seat in the house, while standing room only could be seen in all parts of the house. Without exaggeration fully two or three hundred people were turned away. "Brother Against Brother" is indeed a play calculated to please the most critical. The acting, costumes and scenic effects were in keeping with the play. Every point was appreciated and opportunities to raise to fame of Carl Lorn and Leonzo Bros. came in for a liberal share of the hits."

New Millinery Store.

Miss Fenton and Mrs. Garwood, under the firm name of Fenton & Garwood, will open out a new millinery store in the Hoagland room, third door west of postoffice, now occupied by Mrs. B. Thomas, on Saturday, April 6th. The stock will consist of in part of new line of millinery and notions, to old shelf worn goods, but a new stock just purchased in the New York market. Ladies are requested to remember the date of the opening and reserve their visits until our new stock is inspected.

Fourth Extraordinary Announcement.

To the Public: For the fourth time in the history of Music Hall we desire to call special attention to a Star engagement for our music loving public. We take pleasure in announcing for Friday evening, March 29th, the appearance of the famous actor, Frank Mayo, in the character of the Adventurer in The Royal Guard. This will be the greatest attraction that has ever been presented at Music Hall. Reserve seats at once at Tristram & Young's.
THE MUSIC HALL ASSOCIATION.

China Opening.

Mr. T. F. Magrath, representing Haviland & Co., of New York, who furnished the celebrated White House dinner set, will be at the china store of L. C. & S. H. Sanford on Wednesday, March 27, with a full and elegant line of the latest patterns in decorated French china. The display will consist of anything of the kind ever shown in Marion before and will interest all who call. In fact, china will be shown that is not seen anywhere short of New York City. Don't forget the date.

SPRING MILLINERY

New Stock, New Shapes and Attractive Novelties at Jennie Thomas'.

I am now prepared to show you an elegant line of Millinery. My hat and bonnet stock embraces all the desirable shapes of the season, and new shapes will be added as they appear; all the new designs in flowers and ribbons, laces, veilings, ornaments and millinery novelties. I am prepared to re-shape straw work in shorter time than formerly and in most of the new shapes. I have engaged the service of a competent city trimmer, who with my efficient and well-known trimmers can please the most fastidious. Ladies are invited to call and examine goods and work at Jennie Thomas' Main Street Millinery House.

Having adopted the city custom of disposing of all stock in its season, even at deeply cut prices, I have no old stock to offer, but all goods are new and attractive.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

"Good morning, miss," said the book agent to the little girl he met at the door. "Your mamma?" "Yes, she's in the kitchen trying to fix the stove, it won't bake; who shall I say wants to see her?" "Oh, I'm the new man sent, who will call again."

And the worthy man of commerce passed on, rejoicing at his narrow escape.

"For men must work and women must weep."

When the stove won't bake and the stove won't heat." Anon

But every cloud has its silver lining.
